In the Referred Parent / Peer Supporter relationship, it is imperative that confidentiality be maintained at all times. This is done by making sure that Personal Identifiable Information (PII) never be shared outside of that relationship.

In other words...
All written information you receive, including names, addresses, correspondence and any other inquiry concerning the condition or circumstances of a specific person or family should be kept in strict confidence. Any identifying information (identifying information is any information that alone or in combination with other information, potentially reveals the identity of an individual or family) must also be kept in confidence.
